ZOO'S GUIDE TO ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW, WATCH, BUY & LAUGH

Summer just got hotter!

Last week Britain hit a ridiculous 36.7C – and that can only mean our beaches are teeming with unbelievably hot women in bikinis!

Last week, we were busy totting up the results of our Hot 101 2015 poll (the result of which you can see on page 32). So it seemed apt that

Britain experienced its warmest July weather and the hottest day in memory since Kim Kardashian decided to perch a bottle of bubbly on her backside in the name of internet sabotage.

There's no doubt everyone in Britain was dreaming of heading to the nearest beach to strip off in a bid to cool down.

However, we needed to test the water with this theory, so we got ourselves down to the seaside and found that Britain's babes were turning up the thermostat even more.

Brit babes in bikinis: you've just made summer a whole lot hotter!

BRIGHTON!

Forget the pier, Louise Glaizer and Gemma Smith are the real stars of this beach!

HEATWAVE SPECIAL!

WEST WITTERING!

Meet Harriet, Ellie and Jess.
Is there any better reason to move to Wittering?

Emily Adams and Lauren
Guercio. What can we say other than "Scorchio"!

BARRY ISLAND!

SOUTHAMPTON!

Rachel Hassan showing off her beach essentials: a fine

NEWQUAY!

You won't catch surf babe
Corinne Evans making a splash.
Just waves on the pages of ZOO!

Take note, Roy!

Why we love the Lionesses!

Last week, England Women heartbreakingly bowed out in the World Cup semi-finals with their pride well and truly intact. Here's seven reasons Roy Hodgson's boys need to be more like Mark Sampson's team

Laura Bassett lets it all out!

Brazil nuts!

They show more passion!

There's nothing wrong with a few tears. Just ask Gazza – and now Laura Bassett. Too bad we didn't see such gut-wrenching emotion 12 months ago when Roy's boys deigned to eke out a 0-0 draw with Costa Rica without so much as a whimper. At least it didn't cost us a year's wages to go and watch them play in Brazil... oh wait, it did!

Target woman Jill Scott!

Phil Jones: "no Pirlo"!

They play to their strengths!

The Lionesses knew when to play it short, when to shoot and when to lump it long to Jill "Crouchy" Scott. Let's stop "experimenting" with Phil Jones in the Andrea Pirlo role (seriously, Roy) and start showing the world what we know we can do.

Steph Houghton, Captain Fantastic!

They've got a great defence!

Forget one unlucky own goal. The Lionesses's successes were built on a rock-solid centre-back partnership, with Steph Houghton's leadership qualities the equal of John Terry and Terry Butcher rolled into one. You wouldn't see her run ragged by a half-fit Luis Suarez!

Brilliant banker Rafferty!

Contract rebel Sterling!

They're normal people!

Left-back Claire Rafferty works full time as a financial analyst, while legendary midfielder Fara Williams was homeless when she made her debut. Put it this way: there's no chance any of these women would say they'd turn down a contract for £900,000 a week!

Have-a-go heroines!

2006: Fool's Gold!

Golden generation 2015!

They deliver when it counts!

The Lionesses may have been ranked No6 in the world, but they were the bookies' outsiders. Count the number of times our men have gone into tournaments talking themselves up, only to bottle it when it counts. At least we finally know who the real Golden Generation is...

They make watching England fun again!

More than 2.4 million people watched the Lionesses dominate world champs Japan – and it's unlikely they were switching on for Trevor Sinclair's punditry. It's quite simple really – we want to see England HAVING A GO. When was the last time we saw the men do that at a major tournament? And let's not even mention the under-21s.

And they don't send people to sleep!

Even when they're kicking off at midnight on a weekday. Unlike Sunday afternoon snoozefests against Republic Of Ireland.

Still gripping at 2.30am!

Max-imum CARNAGE!

The new Mad Max game defies delays and doubters to become the surprise hit of 2015!

MAD MAX FIRST PLAY!

Before playing the new Mad Max game, we were expecting a car wreck worthy of a role in one of the famous films.

In development hell for several years (ZOO first spied it in 2013), its release comes just weeks after Mad Max: Fury Road, which is surely nailed on for 2015's finest film.

But this open-world smash of car wars and fist-crunching mayhem was excellent, like an ultra-violent child of Fallout and Batman. Buckle up, it's going to get bumpy...

It's Batman in disguise!

Warner Bros have ripped the rhythmic hand-to-hand combat straight from their Arkham series. The only difference? The Dark Knight is more acrobatic, but Max, armed with spiked knuckles, goes for brutal street-fighting with bloody executions thrown in. More brutal than Batman – that's saying something!

You can snatch turf and supplies

Dotted around this barren open-world, we found the occasional outpost with supplies – petrol, water – but also some larger settlements to conquer. Naturally these housed crazed skinheads, armed to the teeth and itching for a fight. But in beating them, you snatch their territory and stick it to the big, bad overlord.

EXCLUSIVE PICS!

Fantastic flaming wreckage!

The real star of the show is the vehicular combat. The handling wasn't perfect, but when you're driving a rust bucket in these conditions nor should it be. But dishing it out with our flamethrowers, grenade-tipped spears, and harpoons – used to yank the parts and wheels off enemy vehicles – was about the most fun we've had behind the wheel since Mario Kart.

→ Mad Max is out on PS4 & Xbox One on 11 September

Hot wheels

The Magnum Opus was our ride and, as with a racing game, it allowed us to upgrade parts and play the role of a post-apocalyptic Kwik-Fit mechanic. Your chassis, tyres, even little ornaments – it's all interchangeable with the scrap and rubbish we found in the wasteland or yanked from run-ins with the enemy.

A game without borders!

This vast dusty wasteland is gigantic and made the perfect playground for epic car clashes. We loved the ingenious idea of off-roading beyond the borders of the in-game map. This area, nicknamed 'The Big Nothing', was one huge sandstorm – it's a challenge just to survive, but we picked up some rare car parts for our ride.

UPFRONT

W.T.F!

The maddest thing we've seen this week!

Get FACT

The first recorded use of a "selfie stick" has been traced back to a photo taken by a couple in 1925

Airplane mode

We can't stand selfie sticks, but we think we may have found at least one acceptable use for them...

Whether or not you like the odd selfie now and again, it's safe to say almost everybody – excluding excitable tourists – can't stand selfie sticks.

These happy-snapping pieces of equipment have even been banned at venues across the UK, from Wimbledon and The O2, to theme parks and football stadiums.

Mainly used by the likes of Barack Obama and other celebs to show off, so far the only acceptable use we've found for these annoying devices has been from ingenious #ZOOTwitties stars attempting to give us a better view of their amazing assets.

That is until now. Finally, we think we might have found one suitable use for Time magazine's 2014 gadget of the year, as demonstrated here by these high-flying members of the US Air Force.

Who wants to bet that they save all their pictures to the cloud?

THE WEDDING RINGER

Bestie or just a close pal? Take ZOO's definitive male bonding test now to find out if you're in the grip of a full-on The Wedding Ringer-style bromance...

1 YOUR BEST MATE IS WHISKING HIS MISSUS AWAY FOR A WEEKEND CITY BREAK. HOW DO YOU DEAL WITH IT?

- A) Drop him a text to see how he is getting on and catch up over a pint when he's back ☐
- B) WhatsApp him every 15 minutes, Skype him every night and meet him at the airport when he lands back in Blighty ☐
- C) Book yourself into the same hotel and invite yourself out with them for a romantic candlelit dinner for three ☐

2 YOU'RE MIDWAY THROUGH AN INTENSE MATCH ON FIFA WHEN THE HOT GIRL FROM THE OTHER NIGHT RINGS YOU. DO YOU...

- A) Pause the game and take the call while heading out of the room for some privacy? ☐
- B) Let your mate answer and hysterically prank her by pretending to be from Domino's Pizza? ☐
- C) Break your phone in anger at the distraction during your 10,000th game and decider for the evening's session? ☐

3 YOU AND YOUR BUDDY ARE DRIVING ALONG IN THE CAR WHEN CARLY RAE JEPSEN'S I REALLY LIKE YOU COMES ON THE RADIO. HOW DO YOU REACT?

- A) Immediately switch over to talkSPORT and blame it on your mate ☐
- B) Turn up the volume and tap along to it on the steering wheel ☐
- C) Pull up so you can focus all your attention on your lip-sync battle and pointing at each other during the "I really, really, really, really, really like you" bit ☐

4 YOUR MATE'S MISSUS HAS INVITED YOU OUT TO DRINKS TO TRY TO HOOK YOU UP WITH ONE OF HER MATES. HOW DO YOU SPEND THE EVENING?

- A) Charming the pants off your unofficial blind date ☐
- B) Going over the previous night's FIFA gaming highlights with your pal ☐
- C) Taking every opportunity to rip the girls while laughing loudly and high-fiving your mate after every gag ☐

5 You have to text your mate about arrangements for later that night. How do you end the text?

- A) " " ☐
- B) "See you then x" ☐
- C) "See you later bae xx" ☐

RESULTS

Mostly A Just two good mates. Crack on.

Mostly B Beware! You might want to have a discussion about "us".

Mostly C YOU ARE IN A FULL-BLOWN BROMANCE!

If you are still unsure about what a true bromance looks like then buy a copy of The Wedding Ringer, out now on Blu-ray and DVD, and see how funnymen Kevin Hart and Josh Gad deal with brides, weddings and stag dos when they form an unbreakable bond.

How's this for a sunroof?

One South African driver has redefined the drop-top after walking away from this amazing crash in Durban last week.

The driver explained that he had driven his bakkie pick-up truck "over a 'ramp' of some sort", which led him to collide with the house. Luckily, the homeowner was sleeping in the adjacent room when the accident happened and both he and the driver were uninjured.

Something tells us he wasn't expecting anyone to pop in anytime soon...

HAYEMAKER

David Haye vs. Chad Mendes – only in ZOO!

The substitute fighter

Conor McGregor will be fuming that José Aldo has pulled out of their featherweight title fight at UFC 189, but Aldo has had enough fights to know when he's not right, so you've got to take his word for it.

What's more, I don't know how the doctor can declare him fit to fight when it's a rib injury. Only Aldo can judge the level of pain he's in.

Chad Mendes is a great substitute because he's the No2-ranked fighter and has only lost to Aldo. McGregor bypassed him to get the title shot in the first place so now that's not happening it's only fair he faces Mendes.

Fighting for an interim title will be a disappointment but this fight will show how mentally strong McGregor is. Just because Mendes is the No2 fighter in the division doesn't make him an easier opponent. Styles make fights and Mendes' style might be all wrong for him so he has to prove he's ready for the No1 guy.

I think he will and he'll look spectacular doing it.

EMAIL YOUR QUESTIONS FOR DAVID TO HAYEMAKER@ZOOTODAY.COM

IN NEED OF A HAYEMAKER THIS WEEK... MORONIC FANS

I can't believe some Chelsea fans were sending Petr Cech death threats after his move to Arsenal. He gave them 11 years' service and won every trophy going for them. He could have stayed sitting on a bench and been disloyal to the game he loves. Any fan who gives him death threats is an absolute moron because they don't understand life.

Sledging free zone

So much has been said about sledging in the build-up to this Ashes series you would think they were boxers going into the ring. The thing with boxing is all the sledging is done before the fight. I've had my fair share from the likes of Dereck Chisora, but once we get in the ring and that bell goes, the last thing on any of my opponents' minds is verbals. They're far too busy trying to defend against an onslaught of punches.

Girls on top

The England Lionesses have done so well and proved they handle the world stage better than the men. It's easy for people to say it's because the women's team aren't getting paid the same big bucks as the men, so they still push themselves to the limit. But the men's team should definitely take a look at what the Lionesses are doing in terms of training, nutrition and management because they're clearly doing something right.

Long live the ostriches

Nigel Pearson was a brilliant addition to the Premier League managerial roster so it's a shame to see him lose his job. I'm sure the Leicester fans will be scratching their heads after the miracle he pulled off towards the end of last season keeping them up. It's even worse if he's gone for non-footballing issues. But he's clearly a tough nut who can inspire his charges so I'm sure he won't be out of a job very long. Failing that, he can always become a boxing trainer.

ASK DAVID!

What's your favourite festival?

COLIN BRECKIN, via Twitter

I'm a big fan of Wireless and I always try to plan a trip out to Jamaica in time for ATI festival. But the one I really want to go to is Burning Man in the Nevada desert. Loads of my pals go and say it's crazy.

Alfa Romeo returns!

Alfa's 503bhp Giulia puts pure Italian sex appeal back on the menu

Owning an Alfa Romeo is the automotive equivalent of gaining the Chief Scout's Gold Award. It lets all the other petrolheads know you're willing to put hard graft in, you appreciate sleek Italian styling and you don't care if the engine blows up.

But Alfas of recent years have lost some of those special ingredients. Granted, they still fall apart, but the Mito and Giulietta don't evoke emotions like they used to.

But that's all about to change with the unveiling of the ferocious 503bhp Giulia. It's powered by a "Ferrari-inspired" 3.0-litre twin-turbocharged V6 that will happily propel the stunner from 0-62mph in a staggering 3.9 seconds.

Official tech specs reveal that the potent Quadrifoglio Verde version weighs just shy of 1,500kg, which is extremely dainty for a car of its class. It puts it head-to-head with the new BMW M3, meaning we could have a heavy duking Tyson vs Holyfield-style rivalry in the near future.

Alfa says more sedate versions will also go on sale later next year, which will likely be equipped with 1.4 and 1.8-litre petrol engines.

However, it is the carbon ceramic brake discs, aggressive

ZOO goes rallying!

Loose-surface legend Kris Meeke shows our man how it's done

If you attended this year's Goodwood Festival of Speed you were likely to have been blown away by the array of awesome supercars bombing up the famous hill climb route; you probably got a little bit sunburnt; and you were definitely left perplexed by the distant sound of sobbing coming from the rally stage.

Apologies, that was just our man being scared witless by Kris Meeke in his pumped-up Citroën DS3 WRC car. Its 1.6-litre turbocharged engine cranks out a huge 300bhp – and Kris doesn't hang around.

He smashed it, and very nearly smashed the car, but according to the Citroën team, he was regularly posting some of the fastest times around the course, which also explains why our man looked so green when he stepped out of the car.

Vital statistics

Special dish

A new Chinese restaurant just opened down the road, so last Friday I thought I'd try it out.

The waiter sits me next to a couple. As he hands me the menu, I look to see what the couple are eating. Nothing looked too fancy, except for a little basket that was placed between them. Its lid kept popping up, and two small eyes were looking out at me!

Shocked, I asked, "What did you guys order?"

The man takes a look at his basket and replies, "Oh, that? That's the peaking duck."

REVIEWS

Plug yourself into this week's hottest entertainment, featuring the best films, games, music and DVDs

of the week!

With enough time-travel twists to fry even Doc Brown's brain, Terminator: Genisys has the tough job of revamping two flat sequels with a fresh storyline. Thankfully, though, Arnie's back with nods aplenty to the original movie, making sure this action-packed reboot won't be self-terminating this summer.

GoT's Emilia Clarke assumes the mantle of Sarah Connor, alongside her T-800 guardian, whom she fondly nicknames Pops, re-entering the never-ending battle against Skynet, now in a new guise.

The storyline feels a bit closer to home this time round: in a world where we're all connected 24/7 via our mobiles, is a sentient machine closer than we think?

Your brain might hurt a bit trying to unscramble the temporal threads. Our advice? Don't bother – just enjoy this explosive ride through time.

The Voices

If there's ever a film not to see hungover and feeling slightly delicate, it's this. Featuring everything from refrigerated talking heads (the severed kind, not the rock band), talking animals and a singing Ryan Reynolds in a luminous pink and orange suit, it's a black comedy about a murderer (Reynolds) who must be approached with caution. Surreal, mind-boggling and co-starring Anna Kendrick, its weirdness will keep your attention. ★★★★★

Amy

The supremely talented Amy Winehouse, who had such a tragic end, melted our hearts. And thankfully, this documentary captures the precious moments before a life lived in the fast lane, coupled with the constant flash of the paparazzi bulb, sped her to an early demise. Offering unseen clips of her as a teenager and rare home footage, Amy keeps the talking heads to a select few. This is a moving tribute to one of Britain's greatest modern voices. ★★★★★

ZOOVIE NIGHT!

FRONT ROW FACTS ON THE COOLEST CLASSICS

- John Cusack admitted that he made his decision to sign up for this film almost entirely on the strength of the title. Who wouldn't fancy being paid to appear in a hot tub time machine?
- During the sex scene between Lou and Kelly, Lou shouts "droppin' loads!" on reaching orgasm, a reference to porn star Nick Manning's catchphrase.
- After arriving in the past, John Cusack's character pulls a Fishbone T-shirt from his suitcase. Cusack is a known fan of the funk-rock band, and there have been references to them in several of his films.

Craig Robinson came up with the Michael Jackson joke used on the trailer, as well as the "It must be some kind of hot tub time machine" line that he deadpans directly into the camera.

Hot Tub Time Machine

GAME
of the week!

Payday 2: Crimewave Edition

For all the first-person shooters available, there's not exactly a massive selection to choose from when it comes to playing cops and robbers.

Battlefield Hardline gave it a go recently with mixed results and GTA V's online heists were fun when they weren't buggy as hell. But if you're looking for the definitive way to play, Payday 2 pretty much nails it.

Violent firefights obviously play a big part, but it's the thrill of casing a joint, taking hostages, drilling vaults and escaping with cash in your swag bag that really takes centre stage.

OK, so it's a next-gen re-issue of an old 2013 game. But it's not the slick HD makeover or copious DLC thrown in that makes this a worthwhile purchase. It's because, more than ever, Payday 2 is still the best of its kind around. ★★★★★

Hot List

Chappie

Fifty years from now, it'll probably be completely normal for thousands of mechanised police to patrol the streets. But in Neil Blomkamp's sci-fi thriller, it's already a reality, and one robot (Chappie) lands up in the hands of a gang, who retrain it to wreak havoc in the streets of South Africa. Heartwarming and at times hilarious, you'll want Chappie to be your best mate. ★★★★★

DVD!

Woman In Black 2: Angel Of Death

We love old people with their hardboiled sweets, VHS cassettes and healthy pensions. But chuck them in a thriller, put some creepy music over the top and, in this instance, an abandoned church... and not so much! You'll crap your pants. It's not as frightening as the first offering, but it'll still give you nightmares. ★★★☆☆

DVD!

Dear White People

Some white students come up with a "blackened-up" theme for their society party, in response to their uni president's outspoken show. But unimpressed black students turn up and a brawl ensues. Winner of the Sundance Award for Breakthrough Talent, this comedy is by no means as heavy as it first seems, and its razor-sharp script will have you in stitches. ★★★★★

Yoshi's Woolly World

Nintendo have built their rep by creating bright, colourful games that pull you in with charm, but this latest platformer is on a different level altogether. Shame, then, that they couldn't match the fantastic design cues with superb gameplay. But beyond a few entertaining levels, there's really not that much going on. ★★★☆☆

WORD

ANDY C DRUM 'N' BASS DJ

HEY, ANDY! WHERE IN THE WORLD ARE YOU AT THE MOMENT?

I've literally just got back from Amnesia in Ibiza – it was absolute carnage. I was only there for five hours: I flew in at 1am, went to the club and played my set, then flew back home. Playing to a wild rabble in Ibiza is one of the best honours as the crowds never let you down! Having done the Wildlife and Parklife festivals too among others, it's fair to say I'm knackered!

THERE'S NO TIME FOR NAPPING – YOU'VE GOT CREAMFIELDS TO THINK ABOUT! YOU'RE QUITE THE VETERAN THERE...

I can't even begin to think of how many years I've played it. It's been great to see it grow into this incredible event that celebrates dance music. The first year I didn't get the invite, now I'm the one getting the big tents! WHAT DO YOU THINK SETS CREAMFIELDS APART FROM OTHER FESTIVALS YOU PLAY?

I just love festivals in general, I just like going mad in a field with the music blaring, but Creamfields especially is such a legendary name within dance and electro that people gravitate towards it from all over Europe. The great thing about it is it's the last bank holiday of the year, so it's all about good weather, great vibes and one last blow-out.

HOW DO YOU PSYCHE YOURSELF FOR A BIG SHOW? DO YOU HAVE ANY RITUALS? Oh definitely... vodka! You need that before you hit a crowd of thousands – it takes the edge off. But mainly I buzz off the anticipation of just getting out there and playing, it's bonkers.

IN TERMS OF ENJOYING YOURSELF AT A FESTIVAL AND GETTING THE MOST OUT OF IT, DO YOU HAVE ANY TIPS?

Pace yourself. Brits go mad, so I'd say drink plenty of water that's for sure and if you're raving in Britain, don't be a wally, take a waterproof! OBVIOUSLY YOU LIVE LIFE IN THE FAST LANE BEING A DJ AND ALL, BUT HOW DO YOU WIND DOWN. ARE YOU A BATH AND BUBBLES KINDA GUY? CUPPA TEA AND A BICCHIE? Home on a Sunday, straight to the kettle for a brew and Match Of The Day 2. I'm your typical bloke in that respect!

➔ Catch Andy C in action at Creamfields Festival, on Saturday 29 August.

PRISON BREAK

The real-life Shawshank Redemption

An audacious bid for freedom by two ruthless killers took in prison walls, sewer pipes and miles of woodland – before a bloody conclusion. Read the story of the $25m manhunt that captivated America...

It seemed like a case of life imitating art. Two convicted murderers hatched an escape plan reminiscent of Andy Dufresne's in legendary prison film, The Shawshank Redemption.

David Sweat and Richard Matt were serving life sentences at the maximum security Clinton Correctional facility, in Dannemora, New York – Sweat for killing a cop, Matt for murdering and dismembering his former boss. That was until they dug their way out of their cells and climbed to freedom through a pipe, evading a huge manhunt for 23 days before they were finally cornered.

They were for that time the most wanted men in America. The chase ended with one dead, the other critically injured and in police custody. Here's how it panned out...

The escape

Sweat and Matt were housed in adjoining cells, both backing onto an unguarded service area that allowed them access to steam pipes running into the sewage system underneath the prison.

Using saw blades smuggled inside via containers of frozen meat by prison employee, Joyce Mitchell, they cut rectangular holes into the walls, then concealed their handiwork with their beds.

The pair drilled themselves to perfection, practising their escape for five months, right up to the night before. Finally, on 6 June, as the rest of the prison slept, the murderous pair placed their clothes under their duvets to make it look like they were sleeping and clambered through into the service area.

They left a note goading the guards, and crawled 400 yards

DAVID SWEAT

RICHARD MATT

THE TOOL

THE ESCAPE ROUTE

"They drilled themselves to perfection"

to a manhole cover, lying just outside the prison walls.

The hunt

Faced with the embarrassment of Clinton's first escape in its 150-year history, hundreds of police officers, the FBI and US Marshals Service got the $1million-a-day search underway.

Two days after the breakout, New York Governor, Andrew Cuomo, announced a $50,000 bounty on each prisoner's head, and admitted they had no idea of their whereabouts.

The search quickly extended with more than 2,300 reported sightings up to 350 miles away. Finally, the breakthrough – a sighting in a wooded area just 25 miles from Clinton.

Having exhausted all other options, the police investigated. A cabin showed signs of a break-in. DNA tests confirmed the men had been there, probably within the last 24 hours.

The capture

A comprehensive search of the area on 26 June led to an abandoned campsite, which showed traces of a man having slept there. But it was a call from a driver reporting an attempted carjacking which led them to Matt. After challenging the killer, who was now armed with a stolen shotgun, a border patrol agent shot him dead. One down, one to go.

A 1,300-strong team was sent to the area to continue the search, determined to capture Sweat alive, if only to glean information to help tighten up prison security. Eventually he was spotted, brazenly walking down a road in the direction of the Canadian border. The police shot, but this time didn't kill, their target. With Sweat safely in back in custody, and on his way to a nearby medical centre, the largest manhunt in recent American history was over.

THE ACCOMPLICE

Now they were waiting for his condition to stabilise so the questioning could begin.

The aftermath

Sweat and Matt had planned to escape to Mexico with the help of Joyce Mitchell, after first killing her husband. But she backed out after her arrest for her part in the escape, confessing all to the authorities. The men were stranded, left to attempt their getaway on foot.

They worked their way around the woods, breaking into cabins to steal supplies. Sweat felt Matt, forever drunk on stolen booze, was slowing him down. He abandoned him and went his own way.

Since the escape, Clinton Correctional has stepped up its security, searching every cell weekly and cracking down on corruption. Its first breakout may be its last for a while.

WORLD OF SPORT!

JIMMY ANDERSON EXCLUSIVE!

“My bowling does the sledging!”

Tattoos, house music and no sledging: England's leading wicket-taker reveals what's in store for the Aussies this summer...

HI, JIMMY. WE LOVE THIS NEW-LOOK ENGLAND. CAN YOU KEEP UP THIS AWESOME ATTACKING STYLE AGAINST THE AUSSIES?

I hope so. People have got quite excited about it and it's good to watch, so we'll try to keep it going. I think being attacking and positive will work well against Australia, too.

HOW GOOD IS IT TO SEE THE NEW GENERATION LIKE JOE ROOT AND BEN STOKES BLOSSOMING INTO WORLD-CLASS PERFORMERS?

They've been a real breath of fresh air. It's still early days but they've both got bags of talent and if we can keep on encouraging them to go out there and express themselves, then they'll be around for a number of years.

WHAT'S IT LIKE BEING THE GRIZZLED VETERAN OF THE ENGLAND TEAM THESE DAYS?

It's weird. I still remember being the young guy in the dressing room. Now I try to get my '90s indie music on the stereo and the young lads are not interested. I can't quite work out what they listen to. It's like a mix of garage and house. WE NOTICE THE TATTOO COUNT IN THE DRESSING ROOM IS ON THE RISE. ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME YOU GOT A TATTOO SLEEVE?

Ha! If I were ever going to do that it would have been 15 years ago! There are a lot of tats around but I think I'll leave that to the young lads.

ARE YOU PLEASED NOBODY IS MENTIONING KEVIN PIETERSEN ANY MORE?

The KP debate had its moment and I think it's nice that there's a young group of lads now that people have started to talk about – fresh faces and really talented guys who are special to watch.

YOU'VE SPOKEN OF TAKING SLEDGING OUT OF THE GAME. ARE YOU SURE?

Sledging is something I've done in the past and there might be times when it happens during the series, but having played against New Zealand where there was none at all and the cricket was still exciting, it's probably not at the forefront of people's minds as much as it was in years gone by.

BUT DON'T YOU OWE MICHAEL CLARKE A FEW UNSAVOURY WORDS?

As cheesy as it sounds, I like to let my bowling do the talking. My job is to get him out. I'm not thinking about what I'm going to say to him.

BOWLING!

FAIR ENOUGH. DO YOU THINK THE TRAGIC DEATH OF PHILLIP HUGHES HAS CHANGED THE DYNAMIC IN TERMS OF RELATIONS BETWEEN TEAMS?

That was something that shocked the whole cricketing world. People still talk about him and remember the incident, which was a huge tragedy. Sledging is fizzling out already, so I think the game will be played in a really good spirit and I'm sure things like that will help make sure that's the case.

IS IT GOING TO BE A HELP OR A HINDRANCE THAT EVERYONE WILL BE REMEMBERING
ENGLAND'S 2005 ASHES
SUCCESS THIS SUMMER?

It was an incredible series so people should talk about it with it being the 10th anniversary. I remember watching it and it was edge-of-the-seat stuff with every game going to the wire. But there's no point comparing it to now because it's a whole different team.

HAVE THE BOYS BEEN

MORGAN

Not that I'm aware of, although he's got an extensive knowledge of not just cricket but all sports somehow. I think we'll try to find the information elsewhere.

REGAIN THE ASHES?

How to win the Ashes

2005
STYLE!

Ten years on from the greatest Ashes series of all time, former England fast bowler Simon Jones tells ZOO how Alastair Cook and his men can emulate the class of 2005

Get used to the old ball!

"It's enormously important to get used to bowling with the older ball! In 2005 it was essential because the Aussies had Adam Gilchrist coming in at seven. He could win games on his own, so we needed to be at our best when the ball wasn't in great nick."

Keeping up with Jones!

Be aggressive!

"Aggression doesn't mean verbally or even physically abusing Australia, it means bowling with intent, bowling as fast as you can. And hit the ball as far as you can, or set aggressive fields – Michael Vaughan was brilliant at that in 2005! Alastair Cook will have to be the same, or the Aussies will just bat all day."

Feed off the Barmy Army!

"They're a special bunch and unique in world cricket. Whenever England go on tour they'll get a tough time from the opposition, but there's always a contingent of the Barmy Army in the ground cheering them on. At home to the Aussies they'll be really fired up and could well be the deciding factor!"

I've got my kit under this hat if you need a 12th man

Barby army!

Vaughan to be king!

Bat all day!

"Duncan Fletcher was always very, very keen that we worked hard on our batting, even the bowlers. We took pride in frustrating the Aussies in 2005. If we found ourselves at 300-7 we wouldn't stop fighting until we added another 100 runs. It's a sure-fire way to put a downer on your opposition's good work!"

Fred and butter!

Hurry up and give him out – the pub is open!

Forget who you're facing!

"There's no hiding place in Test cricket. It's a new, young team so they have to play their natural game. They've been impressive so far. Mark Wood has come in and looked nothing but relaxed. The best advice I can give is to play the ball, not the name!"

Stay fit!

"I got through three-and-a-half Tests in 2005 but only with loads of injections in my ankle! Each player will have their own way of keeping themselves in top condition. We've got a great set of physios, but if Jimmy Anderson gets injured we're stuffed! So keeping fit throughout the series is paramount."

Ditch the stats!

"When I was first playing, statisticians were starting to make an appearance in the dressing room. I'm still not convinced by them. If you're hitting the right line and length, you'll trouble the batsman. Having too much information will just confuse everyone. And what happens if Plan A doesn't work? I like to see lads go out and play with their heads!"

"I'm invincible – even the Terminator knows it!"

Conor McGregor denounces no-show Jose Aldo and turns the screws on Chad Mendes ahead of their big UFC 189 clash in Las Vegas

HI, CONOR. HOW DISAPPOINTED ARE YOU THAT JOSE ALDO HAS PULLED OUT INJURED?

I've been anticipating it since the fight was announced. The eyes never lie – when I looked into that man's eyes I saw fear, I saw glass. But I don't blame the man because I was going to f**king butcher him and rip him limb from limb. I wouldn't want to face that either.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF REPLACEMENT OPPONENT CHAD MENDES?

Chad is a B-level fighter, a wrestler who gases because his body is in disproportion to his height. When I'm pressing his body will be screaming for oxygen. Eventually he'll break like they all do.

WILL THIS HURT THE PAY-PER-VIEW SALES?

No because people are tuning in to see the Conor McGregor show, no matter if it's Jose or Chad. But it is Chad and I'm going to f**king butcher him. You shouldn't have answered the phone, kid!

THE INTERIM FEATHERWEIGHT BELT IS ON THE LINE, BUT SHOULD IT BE THE REAL THING?

As far as I'm concerned this is the real world title on the line. If a man pussies out time and again then he's done. The medical report states Aldo's fit, so no more questions – he should be rightfully stripped.

THE TERMINATOR ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER

RECENTLY CALLED YOU "ONE OF THE GREATEST ATHLETES OF ALL TIME". DOES THAT MAKE IT OFFICIAL?

Arnold is an absolute legend of a man. He'd be president now if he'd been born American. The Terminator himself knows what he's talking about, so it's an honour to hear those words. I'm in a position now where I'm invincible.

DO HIS COMMENTS MAKE UP FOR ALL THE PEOPLE SAYING YOU STILL WON'T

"I'm going to butcher Chad, he shouldn't have answered the phone!"

BE A TRUE CHAMPION IF YOU WIN THIS ONE?

I don't pay any attention to that. They will always say something to try to discredit what I'm doing here, but cash beats credit every day of the week. That's what I'm here for, to shut this man down, break that pay-per-view record, cash them big fat cheques and f**k anybody who ever doubted me.

VEGAS IS GOING TO BE AN IRISH ENCLAVE COME FIGHT NIGHT. HOW BIG AN ADVANTAGE WILL THAT BE?

People don't understand what it's like when I'm heading into the Octagon with all these screaming fans. They don't get it until they're in the middle. By then it's too late. WOULD YOU STILL LIKE TO FIGHT ALDO IF YOU WIN THIS?

100 per cent, but he has to realise it's the McGregor division now. Aldo bottled it so it's on my call. If he wants to come back with his tail between his legs that's no problem.

SATURDAY
11 JULY

UFC 189 INTERIM FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE FIGHT
Conor McGregor vs Chad Mendes
BT Sport 2, 3am

McGregor beating
Dennis Silver!

*Fight?
Er, I won't be back!*

“I’d fight Conor on one day’s notice!”

Chad Mendes claims Jose Aldo’s loss is his lottery win

HELLO, CHAD. YOU TOOK THIS FIGHT ON TWO WEEKS’ NOTICE. WILL YOU BE READY?

Two weeks’ notice or a day’s notice, this is a fight I would never turn down. I’m always in the gym even when I’m not fighting and I have been preparing for McGregor since the first time I saw him in the UFC, so I’m more than ready.

IS THIS LIKE WINNING THE LOTTERY?

This is a huge opportunity. I was in Las Vegas talking to Dana within 24 hours of the news of Aldo’s injury and I signed the contract straight away. But after knocking out Ricardo Lamas, who took Aldo the distance, and sharing the Fight Of The Year with Aldo himself, I feel like I deserve it.

WHAT DID CONOR DO TO MAKE IT SO PERSONAL FOR YOU?

We did an interview right before my Aldo fight and he was talking about putting his balls on my head and just being very unprofessional. You just don’t f**king do that. This is the fight game where somebody can get very seriously injured – and that’s what I’m looking to do when I get in there against Conor McGregor.

HE’S CALLED YOU A WRESTLER WITH NOT ENOUGH IN THE TANK. IS THAT FAIR?

Conor has never faced anyone like me before. I have the athleticism, power, speed and wrestling to put him on his back in this fight. I’m going to destroy him.

HE’S ALSO PREDICTED HE’S GOING TO FINISH YOU INSIDE OF FOUR MINUTES. WHAT DO YOU SAY TO THAT?

Conor, are you going to do the splits like Jean-Claude Van Damme? I’m going to give you a little more respect buddy – I’ll finish you within the first three rounds.

Nigel Pearson: open for offers!

After getting his P45 from Leicester, football's hardest gaffer is seeking new challenges. And ZOO has his CV*...

Curriculum Vitae

Name Nigel Pearson

Email bigsofy@flexibleostrich.org.uk

Mission statement

Football manager seeking immediate employment. I will grab any role – or player – with both hands. Failing to secure a role in football, I will consider offers in the fields of door security or WWE.

EDUCATION HISTORY

- Physical education, The School of Hard Knocks – A
- Veterinary studies, Leicester City press room – Fail

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

- Manager, Leicester City 2008-10
- Manager, Hull City 2010-11
- Manager, Leicester City 2011-15

ACHIEVEMENTS

- Masterminded the greatest of great escapes to avoid the drop after spending 140 days at the bottom of the Premier League, longer than any other club in history, 2014-15
- Football League Championship – Champions 2013-14
- LMA Championship Manager Of The Year 2013-14
- Football League One – Champions 2008-09

KEY SKILLS

Advanced survival knowledge. When it comes to Premier League endurance, no manager is better equipped. In fact, after fighting off a pack of wild dogs, not once but twice, while hiking alone in the Carpathian mountains – a life-threatening experience for some, a regular walk in the park for me – I may even be over-qualified.

MANAGEMENT STYLE

Hands-on. Literally. There are no hiding places with me, not just for my own players, but the opposition as well. As Crystal Palace winger James McArthur learnt when he accidentally crashed into me last season and got a throttling in return. As I explained at the time, I can look after myself – even if that means taking care of clumsy opponents who refused to sign for me.

MOTIVATION

When the chips are down you need somebody with true never-say-die attitude. I demonstrated my durability and refusal to be cowed in the face of overwhelming odds when I was sacked, then unsacked, by Leicester in the space of two hours after my aforementioned brush with Mr McArthur.

COMMUNICATION SKILLS

In an era when football is moving ever further away from the fans, I bridge that gap by unapologetically speaking their language. As I proved when I told one to “f**k off and die” after finding his match analysis flawed and, yes, refusing to apologise. Why should I? I was right, he was wrong.

FULL-SPECTRUM VISION

Some may consider it a fault, but I refuse to bury my head in the sand at the first sign of trouble. And if that means calling out others, such as local newspaper journalists who ask awkward questions or express opinions I'd rather not hear, then so be it. I'll have no ostriches at my club.
